

Checkpoint Charlie - Police checkpoint placed to look for intoxicated drivers, drivers with valid licenses.

Evil Knievel - Police officer on a motorcycle.

Miss Piggy - A female police officer.

Mama bear - A less derogatory term for a female police officer.

Baby bear - A rookie police officer.

Bear in the air - A police aircraft in flight.

Bear - A police officer.

Bear trap - Police officer running radar.

Bear bite/Invitation – A traffic ticket/citation.

Bear's den/Bear cave - A police station.

Bear rolling discos - A speeding police car with its lights flashing.

City kitty - A local city police officer.

County Mounty - A county sheriff or deputy sheriff/deputy.

Fox in the hen House – An unmarked police vehicle.

Flying donut - A police helicopter.

Wall-to-wall bears - A large number of police vehicles, especially when on a chase.

4-10 - A reversal of the ten code "10-4," when asking if someone agrees with something said or if one's transmission was received. ("That was a nasty wreck. Four-ten?")

5 by 5 - 5 by 5 indicates that another CB user can be heard clearly

10-4 - (sometimes simply "4"): Acknowledged; can also be used to denote or emphasize an agreement.

10-6 - Busy; stand by.

10-7 - Out of commission.

10-8 - In service; taking calls.

10-9 - Repeat, usually requested.

10-10 - CB user will cease broadcasting but will continue to listen. ("I'm 10-10 on the side.")

10-20 - (more often simply "20"): Denotes location, as in identifying one's location, asking the receiver what their current location or destination is ("What's your 20?").

10-33 - An emergency situation, also used for radio checks.

3s and 8s - Love and kisses.

10-36 - The time of day. ("Can I get a 10-36?")

10-51 - "I'm headed your way." ("I'm 51 to you.")

10-100 - (polite): Taking a bathroom break, especially on the side of the road. Refers to showing one finger to denote the need to urinate.

10-200 - Police needed at a certain location.

10 in the wind - Listening to the CB while driving (also known as "10-10 in the wind").

Angry kangaroo - A truck with one (or both) of its headlights out.

Back door - The rear of a vehicle.

Back row - An area of a truck stop, where prostitutes congregate.

Bear bait - An erratic or speeding driver

Break/Breaker - Informing other CB users that you'd like to start a transmission on a channel.

Choke and puke - A truck stop restaurant, especially one known for its less-than-quality food.

Copy that or "Copy - Acknowledgement; "I heard you" or "I understand."

Eat 'em up - A restaurant.

Four, Foe - Refers to 10-4, dropping the 10; also "Yeah, Four," "Foe," or "Yeah, foe" (slang for "four").

Go-go juice - Gasoline or diesel fuel.

Starsky and Hutch - Two drivers together as a team.

Good buddy - In the 1970s, this was the stereotypical term for a friend or acquaintance.

Jabber/Jabbering idiot/Babble/Babbling idiot - A CB user transmitting in a foreign language.

Kojak with a Kodak - A police officer with a radar gun.

Lot lizard - A prostitute in a rest area or who works the parking area of a truck stop.

Credit card machine - A narrow two-lane bridge.

Fighter pilot - A driver who constantly changes lanes.

Seat cover - An attractive woman in a vehicle, especially one who is scantily-clad.

Semi-pro - Pickup truck drivers congregating with truckers.

On one's donkey - Following one too close; tailgating. ("You have a sports car 'on your donkey'.")

Suicide Jockey - A driver who is hauling [[dangerous goods]], such as explosives.

Sandbagging - Listening to CB conversation without participating, despite having the capability of speaking.